

Biennial 2024: MTSU Art and Design Faculty Exhibition

MTSU Art and Design proudly presents Biennial 2024: An MTSU Art and Design Faculty Exhibition. This showcase resides in the Todd Art Gallery in Todd Hall, room 224A, and is open until December 14, 2024.

The exhibition highlights selected works from a multi-talented faculty, representing diverse course areas such as Art Education, Foundations, Graphic Design, Illustration, and Studio Art—encompassing Ceramics, Painting, Print Media, and Sculpture. The exhibit showcases a compelling fusion of artistic expression from faculty members: Erin Anfinson, Michael Baggaly, Doug Dabbs, Kimberly Dummons, Kelsey Duncan, Jarrod Houghton, Sisavanh Houghton, Kate Kinder, Noël Lorson, Mark McLeod, Joshua Lynn, Paige Medlock, Jimmy Mumford, Melissa Newman, Kathleen O'Connell, Ambrose Prince, Tony Rodriguez, Nick Satinover, and Jake Wells.

Each Biennial serves a dual purpose: introduce the artwork of newer faculty to Art and Design students, MTSU's campus, and the larger community while simultaneously showcasing the ongoing artistic endeavors of the department's more experienced professors. Attendees have the unique opportunity to witness a vibrant and expressive representation of contemporary visual art emerging from the campus of MTSU.

Rick Rishaw, Todd Art Gallery Preparator, emphasizes the exhibition's significance in engaging viewers—whether students or community members—in a dialogue about the cultural importance of visual art, as illustrated through this exhibition of work. “This Biennial creates an inviting space for reflection and exploration, allowing attendees to connect the faculty's artwork with their instructional practices.” Rishaw adds, “It allows faculty to practice what they preach!”
